

PERSONAL.

Miss May McNulty and Miss Margaret McNulty have returned from Atlantic City, where they spent two weeks' vacation.

Dr. M. B. Love of Philadelphia, is spending the day in Connelville. T. B. Orwig and T. C. Bailey of Pittsburg are business callers in town today.

Robert Orwig is visiting in Indian Creek today.

In our 14 years of tailoring in Connelville, we have had thousands of pleased patrons. Are you one? If not, why not? Dave Cohen.—Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yoder and children of the West Side returned home last evening after several weeks' visit at the home of Mr. Yoder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yoder of Evendale.

Miss Cora Eastholm of the West Side, left this morning for Buffalo Mills to visit friends.

Mrs. Anson Harris of Wick Haven, is visiting at the home of Dr. H. Z. Harris of the West Side.

Loans from $10 up on furniture, pianos, horses and any personal property. Union Loan Company, 207 Title & Trust building, corner Main and Pittsburg streets. Both phones.—Adv.

Mrs. Holland Plesch and guests, Edith and Mary Campbell and Mrs. Florence McDonald of the West Side, were visiting in Vanderhill yesterday.

A. P. Morton is in Confluence on business today.

Edith McKee and Allen Herbert of the West Side, returned home last evening for several weeks' visit in Falling Waters and Hagerstown, W. Va.

C. M. Maxwell and wife and daughter returned home last night from a month's camping in Grand Md. During his stay there Mr. Maxwell caught several large fish and was a St. Patrick to the make.

The big three-reel feature "The Battle of Bull Run." Another two-reel feature, "Campaigning With Custer" and a splendid comedy, "New Way to Win a Girl," at the Holston Theatre tomorrow.—Adv.

E. O. Blair and Walter Byers of Perryopolis were calling on friends in town yesterday.

Mrs. F. M. Sherrick is visiting friends in Uniontown.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Lehrer, who have been visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William A. Stewart, of South Connelville, returned to their home in Philadelphia today.

Thomas Stewart of Pittsburg, is visiting at the home of his brother, William A. Stewart of South Connelville.

Rev. Burgess and family have returned home after a week's stay at Selby, Pa.

Miss Ruth Graham of Uniontown, is spending several days as the guest of Miss Kathryn Keys of town.

RAPS CURRENCY BILL.

New York Bankers Strongly Oppose the Open-Glass Measure.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Violent opposition to the Open-Glass currency bill was declared today by A. Burton Hepburn, president of the Chase National Bank of New York, and chairman of the currency commission of the American Bankers Association, addressing a gathering of bankers here today, who met in response to a call from the currency commission to formulate objections to the currency measure now pending before Congress.

Objectable features of the bill include: Domination by the government of the federal reserve fund to control the banks; the provision making the government responsible for notes to be issued by the banks, which will be considered as assets; and the provisions pending for a central national bank.

STAR ATTRACTION CHANGED.

Ben Greer Players to Have a Night Date on Chautauqua Program.

One of the chief attractions of the coming Chautauqua, the Ben Greer Players, will appear in Connelville on the evening of Monday, September 1, according to the announcement made today by members of the managers' committee.

The players were first scheduled to appear on Monday morning, but efforts on the part of the executive committee to have their time of appearance changed to the evening, have proven successful.

Canvassers will arrive in Connelville early next week, to assist in the sale of tickets. Local representatives of the committee are visiting Vanderhill, Dawson, Mount Pleasant and other towns in the vicinity.

DEFENDANTS' PAY.

Squire Buttermore Settles a Quarrel From Dutch Bottom.

Adam and Grace Wallace, colored, were arraigned before Squire P. M. Buttermore of the West Side yesterday on charges of breach of the peace, preferred against them by Louis Sokol. Both parties live in Dutch Bottom and have been continually quarreling lately, it is said.

Hose claims that after a quarrel Adam shook his fist, and that Grace threw stones at her. The case was settled by the defendants paying the costs. Constable William Island of Dunbar township was the constable in the case.

Infant Improves Slowly.

Kermit Grimm, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Braden Grimm of Phillips is slowly improving, after a severe attack of a complication of diphtheria. His twin, Wayne, was taken ill a few weeks ago and died.

Baby Boy is Born.

A 10½ pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reese of 103 Fortie avenue, Wednesday, at 6:30 o'clock. Mr. Reese is a Baltimore & Ohio conductor, and he is handing out the smokes to his friends.

Rev. Allison in Ohio.

Rev. J. P. Allison left this afternoon for Shreve, O., where he will spend the remainder of his vacation. He expects to return to Connelville next week.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneceda" stamped on every biscuit means that if a million packages of Uneceda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneceda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

NEWCOMERS MEET.

More than 800 Attend Annual Reunion at Shady Grove.

More than 800 persons yesterday attended the Newcomer reunion at Shady Grove. They came from all parts of the county. Several districts were represented in the gathering.

At a business session the organization for the following year was perfected which resulted in the following: President, F. C. Newcomer, vice president, J. J. Newcomer, secretary, J. I. Newcomer, all of Uniontown; treasurer, D. L. Newcomer, of Percy. The committee appointed by the president to make arrangements for the reunion in 1914 is composed of J. J. Newcomer, chairman; W. L. Newcomer and Ira D. Coffman, all of Uniontown.

THE MILLER REUNION.

Big Gathering Will be Held at Killarney Park September 8.

The Miller reunion, embracing the Millers of Fayette, Westmoreland and Somerset counties, will be held at Killarney Park on Saturday, September 8. This is one of the largest reunions of the year. There are more Millers than Smiths in Western Pennsylvania, and when the clan gets together it sizes up as a rather fair crowd.

Judge Robert E. Umbel is to be the pastor of the day. There will be a brass band, sports, plenty to eat and a general good time for all.

Connellsville will probably send the largest delegation, but the mountains threaten to become virtually depopulated on that day.

MINARD REUNION.

Big Gathering is Held in Ferncliff Park at Oniopolis.

The first annual reunion of the Minard family was held at the Ferncliff Park at Oniopolis yesterday. There was a large attendance and good weather.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. I. H. Minard; vice president, Martin Minard, secretary, Roy Minard; treasurer, Mrs. Esther Freed. A sketch of the Minard history was read by A. E. Harbaugh of Mill Run.

Do Not Think Your Old Age.

One of nature's laws is that everybody grows old. You will not be the exception. If you are not saving a portion of your earnings to provide for your old age, you are really robbing yourself. As middle age was intended by nature as a time in which to provide for old age. Begin at once to save a part of your income. The Citizens National Bank of Connelville, 135 Pittsburg street, invites savings deposits in any amount.—Adv.

The King Reunion.

The King reunion will be held tomorrow at Shady Grove. The family has made arrangements with the West Penn for two special cars, which will leave Scottsdale early in the morning.

Patronize those who advertise.

SOCIETY.

Friends Honor Miss Nell.

A party of young people from Dunbar spent a very enjoyable evening at Shady Grove Park Wednesday. The event was in honor of Miss Kathryn Nell, a nurse from the St. Joseph's Hospital, Pittsburg. A delicious supper was served, and the evening was spent in dancing.

Those present were: Margaret McGovern, Sara Nell, Kathryn Nell, Elizabeth Nell, Sara Courtney, Alice Smith, Margaret Jeffries, Anna Miller, Kathryn Raycamp, Maynard Barry, Cecelia Geary, Sara Ellen Bainbridge, Beatrice Kane, Bridget McGovern, Elizabeth McGowan, Anna Melvin, Mary Raun, Nellie Brown, Michael Barry, Albert Richmond, James Griffith, James Holchley, Edward Miller, John Moore, Charles Geary, James J. Brady, James Matthews, Harold Lewis, Patrick McGovern, Mill Cassidy, John Jones, Andrew and Bernard McGovern, Joseph Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Reed of town, who chaperoned the party.

Lawn Party Tuesday.

The Ladies Aid and Missionary Society of the United Presbyterian Church will hold a lawn party on the church lawn Tuesday evening, September 2. One of the attractions will be automobile races over the city.

To Make St. Study.

The X. Y. Z. Fancy Work Club will hold a picnic at Shady Grove Park on Tuesday, August 26. Members will leave on the 2:30.

Lutheran Church Gather.

The annual reunion of the Lutheran church was held at Shady Grove in Rockwood yesterday under the auspices of the Somerset county Lutheran conference. Two bands, the Rockwood Band and the Wilson Creek Band, rendered music throughout the day. Fifteen hundred people attended. In the afternoon a speech was made by Rev. Burgess of Connelville, and a prayer was offered by Rev. I. P. Johnson of the White Oak Church. "Distinctive Responsibility" of the Lutheran Church, was the theme upon which Rev. Burgess spoke. A ball game was played between the boys of the Somerset and Rockwood churches in the afternoon.

The ministers in attendance were: Rev. Ellis H. Burgess of town; Rev. Canon of Garrett; Rev. Levi P. Young, president of the Allegheny Synod and the pastor of the Shady Grove church; Rev. J. P. Johnson, White Oak; Rev. J. H. Huchler, Berlin; Rev. D. S. Kurtz, Rockwood; Rev. I. L. Wagner, Somerset; Rev. John Brubaker, Berlin; Rev. J. C. McCanney, Fredonia; Rev. P. J. Shriver, Hooverville; and Rev. J. A. Lowe, Centerville.

Laymen-Giffin Reunion.

A reunion of the Laymen-Giffin is being held at Johnstown today. John Layton is a representative from this place.

CANNED STUFF TO SOAR.

Food in This Will Not Solve High Cost of Meat Problem.

By United Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 22.—If so the prices of canned goods. Housewives who expect to use such goods this winter in preference to meat because of high prices will find that prices will be as high as those asked by butchers for meat.

The drought is responsible for the boom, according to wholesale grocers here, who predict an advance of from 10 to 25 per cent over existing prices. Sweet corn will suffer the most. Canners of Illinois, Indiana and Iowa report a serious crop shortage.

To Promote Treasures.

Superintendent C. P. Bloom of the federal building said today that he will prosecute persons who trespass on the postoffice land. Several persons have a habit of taking a short cut across the ground.

Fifth Annual Reunion.

In the Form of a Basket Picnic of the King Family

at Shady Grove Park Sat. Aug. 23.

Special cars will leave Scottsdale at 9 o'clock A. M. Connections made with Vanderbilt and South Connelville.

HAD TO STEAL, HER PLEA.

Former School Teacher Prefers Jail to Fate of Shame.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22.—Preachers, business men and professional men became impromptu witnesses in criminal court today, when Miss Virginia Anderson, until recently a Sunday school teacher, was arraigned on the charge of defrauding a large department store under the name of Mrs. H. H. Hough.

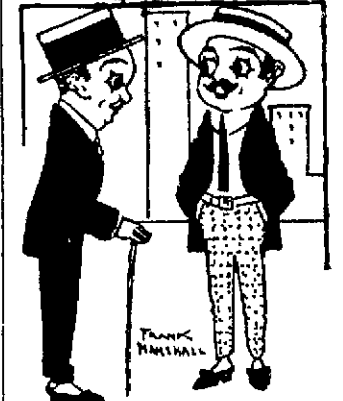

The girl told Judge Marshall Brown that she was obliged to steal for a living to escape a life of shame after story to the effect that she had been thrown out of work by spring sickness touched the magistrate, and character witnesses were hastily summoned. It is probable that the girl will be paroled.

Candidate is Here.

Frank A. Williams of Fairchance, candidate for Republican nomination as jury commissioner, was a Connelville visitor today. Williams is making a thorough canvass and meeting with considerable encouragement.

West Penn Outing.

The office employees of the West Penn will hold a corn roast at Cool Spring Tuesday evening. The party will leave the Main street waiting room on the 6 P. M. car.

SCIENTIFIC PROPHECY.

Dobby—When is your wife coming home?
Bobby—The first night I have the boys up for a little game.

From Corn to Toasties

—a capital evolution

The ripened kernels of pearly white Indian Corn with their succulent goodness, are cooked, then rolled into thin, wafery bits, and toasted to a golden brown.

Add a little cream and sugar—perhaps some fresh berries—and the combination snacks wondrous good.

Post Toasties are untouched by human hand from start to finish of the making, and come to you crisp and sweet—ready to eat from the package. Wholesome, nourishing—a Royal dish for hot days—and all days.

Post Toasties

Sold by Grocers Everywhere

WHERE TO LOOK FOR MERIT

This store sells HIGH GRADE GOODS. Nothing else. After thirty years experience we are able to give the consumer exactly what he wants, when he wants it and at the price he ought to pay.

BAUR'S CAKES AND ROLLS SATURDAY.

50 lb. sack Kelly's Famous Flour $1.45	2 quart jars Mustard.....25c
50 lb. sack White Satin Flour...$1.50	7 double sheets Fly Paper.....10c
4 lbs. good fresh Ginger Snaps...25c	2 cans Snider's or Van Camp's Baked Beans.....25c
3 lbs. N. B. C. Soda Crackers.....25c	3 cans Fancy Lemon Cling Peaches.50c
2 lbs. fresh Cream Crackers.....25c	3 dozen Sweet or Sour Pickles.....25c
Choice Rio Coffee, lb.....18c	Extra Fancy Dill Pickles, 1 dozen...15c
3 boxes Jell-O (any flavor).....25c	10 bars Swift's Naptha Soap.....38c
Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, can...15c	10 bars Swift's White Laundry Soap38c
Quart jar Pure Preserves.....30c	Large box Gold Dust.....20c
Shredded Wheat Biscuit, box.....12c	4 lb. box Old Dutch Cleanser.....25c
2 boxes Grape-Nuts.....25c	3 5c boxes Matches.....10c
3 large boxes Corn Flakes.....25c	3 5c sacks Salt.....10c
4 lbs. Navy Beans.....25c	3 5c cakes Scourall.....10c
3 lbs. Lima Beans.....25c	3 boxes Seeded Raisins.....25c
4 lbs. good Clean Rice.....25c	4 dozen Extra Heavy Jar Gums.....25c
Fancy Evaporated Raspberries, box28c	6 large rolls Toilet Paper.....25c
25c jar Pure Fruit Preserves.....15c

SPECIALS

4 cans Sugar Corn.....25c	Pure Cocoa (loose) lb.....18c
8 cans Oil Sardines.....25c	Quart Tin Cans, dozen.....25c
Extra Fancy Small Mackerel, each...5c	3 boxes Premier Rolled Oats.....25c
Extra Fancy Little Beets, can.....10c	Dunlevy's Bacon, lb. boxes.....30c

Fresh Meats of all kinds, also Dressed Chickens at our meat counter.

DAVIDSON'S

"The Store That Helps You."

109 WEST MAIN STREET,

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa.

YOUR OWN HOME.

Buy It or Build It and Pay For It Like Rent.

We will not say that anybody who can pay rent can pay for a home. It takes a certain amount of will power and perseverance to accomplish anything and many people, lacking those qualities will go on paying rent all their lives. But we will say that any man who has the necessary stamina in his make up can easily pay for a home with the aid of the Youth Trust Company, which lends the money to build or buy when you yourself have saved a certain sum. While you are saving "The Youth" pays you 4% on your savings and the money it loans you to buy or build can be paid back in monthly installments like rent. Drop in and talk it over, or write to the Youth Trust Company for handsome booklet.—Adv.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

Light of the Fireflies.

It has been proved by experiments conducted by M. Ives, a chemist, that the light emitted by fireflies, glow-worms and other insects is purely chemical and not in any way biological. M. Ives finds that this light is not extinguished by death. Of course after death some stimulus is necessary to excite it, but it can be produced in their tissues two years after death, which makes certain that the chemical in origin.—New York W. Id.

CHAUTAUQUA SEASON TICKETS.

In arranging to inaugurate this chautauqua this year the local committee bought 1,000 $2.50 season tickets, which will be sold while they last by them for $2.00 each.

When these tickets are exhausted no season tickets thereafter can be had for less than $2.50. Also, the price of season tickets will not be reduced from the first day to the close of the chautauqua.

The single admissions to the different sessions of this chautauqua aggregate more than $5.00, so it will pay you to buy a season ticket even after the program is half completed. For the single admissions to the respective entertainments see program.

Season tickets are non-transferable except within the owner's family.

CHILDREN'S TICKETS admit children aged six to fourteen years inclusive. Only child's tickets will admit children to the children's work.

Rapid Vacuum Washer Coupon.

Friday, August 22, 1913.

Present this Coupon at The Courier office, with 5 others of consecutive dates and

98 Cents

and get this $3.50 Rapid Vacuum Clothes Washer.

NAME.....

P. O.....

HAVE YOUR PRINTING DONE AT THIS OFFICE.

RHEUMA

FOR ALL FORMS OF RHEUMATISM

Don't be skeptical about RHEUMA, the modern enemy of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Arthritis, Gout, Chronic Neuritis, or Kidney Disease. After taking a few doses you will know that the poisonous Uric Acid is leaving the system.

For six years I was practically a cripple on crutches from Rheumatism. One bottle of Rheuma cured me.—J. K. Greenburg, 3839 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill. RHEUMA—guaranteed—50c a bottle. Sold by A. A. Clark, N. Pittsburg St.

REICK'S ICE CREAM

Daily From Pittsburg.

"It's Pure That's Sure"

Served at our Fountain Tables.

Neapolitan 15c. Sundae 10c.

Take home a Brick 25 and 40c.

Collin's Drug Store, 117 S. Pittsburg Street.

The News of Nearby Towns.

CONFLUENCE.

CONFLUENCE, August 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sullivan and two children of Wilkesburg are guests of the former's mother Mrs. Anna Sullivan in town today.

Mrs. James Hainbaugh and two children of Confluence were guests of friends in town yesterday.

Harry Wilson of Johnson's Chapel was in town on business Wednesday.

Patrick J. Jurewicz of Rockwood was the guest of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jurewicz Wednesday and Thursday.

Miss Myrna Hunter of California, Pa., was the guest of friends in town Wednesday. She was on her return home from having visited Mr. and Mrs. James Hook and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Hook at Somersfield the past week.

Mrs. J. F. Meyers and son Paul were guests of friends at Somersfield Thursday.

Miss Jennie Davis has returned home after having spent a week at the home of Mrs. Frank Davis at Jennings near Grantville.

P. E. Vincent of Fort Hill, was in town on business Thursday.

Mrs. Frank Rose and daughter Kathryn of Connel's Hill, are guests of Mrs. John Davis at Rockwood.

Miss Hazel Shipley spent yesterday at the home of friends in Rockwood.

Mrs. John Weaver and daughter Jean are guests of Mrs. Ben Conway at Rockwood for a few days.

Mrs. John Hick and Mrs. John Herard were guests of friends in Somersfield yesterday.

Miss Anna Sullivan of Connel's Hill, was the guest of friends in town yesterday.

Carl Olsen and daughter of Connel's Hill, were guests of friends in town yesterday and today.

Mrs. A. A. Hines and Mrs. Hazel Newman spent Thursday with friends in Rockwood.

Mrs. John Davis and Mrs. Frank Rose were guests of friends in Uralia Thursday.

Mrs. Benjamin McNeill and children were visitors in town a short time yesterday. They were returning home from visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson in Ohio.

Misses Harriet and Sadie Minter of Jackson, were calling on friends in town yesterday.

ROCKWOOD.

ROCKWOOD, Aug. 21.—J. D. Locke, manager of the John D. Locke & Co. store at Rockwood, is spending several days in Pittsburgh on business.

Mr. Herring of Uniontown, one of the partners of the firm, will have charge of the store during his absence.

Miss Daisy Taylor of New Lexington, has been admitted to the Memorial Hospital at Johnstown for special treatment. It is expected that she will have to undergo an operation.

The Milford Harvest Home picnic will be held in the Milford Pine Grove near the United Brethren Church on Saturday, August 30. A special program has been prepared and an old fashioned dinner will be served on the grounds.

J. P. Berkebile, cashier of the First National Bank of Rockwood, has been appointed executor of the estate of the late Mary Pleas of Quakertown township.

Many Rockwood people will be interested to note that Frank L. Brendel who has been superintendent of terminals at Baltimore for the Western Maryland railroad has been promoted to the superintendency of the middle division with headquarters at Hagerstown, Md.

Elmer Schaefer of the contracting firm of Schaefer Brothers, who has been suffering with appendicitis for some time past, has been removed to the Cottage State Hospital at Connel's Hill for treatment.

The program for the United Brethren picnic has been completed, as follows: Addresses by District Attorney Virgil Snyder and Reverend Buffington, both of Confluence, and Reverend Unstead, of Confluence. Both dinner and supper will be served on the grounds. Baseball game, Rockwood vs. Howell, at 2:30 P. M. Festival in the evening.

Church announcements for next Sunday.

Lutheran Church.—Preaching at 10:30 A. M. and 7:30 P. M.

Methodist Church.—Preaching at 11:00 A. M.

United Brethren Church.—Preaching at 10:30 A. M.

United Brethren Church.—Preaching at 10:30 A. M.

VANDERBILT.

VANDERBILT, August 21.—Quite a number from here attended the picnic at Hultown yesterday given by the women of the Fancy Work Club. They report a fine time.

Mrs. W. J. Reid was calling on Connel's Hill friends yesterday.

Mrs. J. T. Healy has returned home after spending a few days with friends at Perryville.

Mrs. J. W. Mathison was calling on her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard O'Connor yesterday.

Clyde Randolph was up at the Cottage State Hospital yesterday getting his side dressed. He underwent an operation a few weeks ago for appendicitis.

Mrs. J. Burghart and Mrs. Beale of Hittor were Vanderbilt callers yesterday.

The Methodist Episcopal Church and the Christian Church will hold a picnic at Shallenberger's farm next Thursday. All members are invited to attend.

Sumner's Waste Station, HARRISBURG, Aug. 22.—Complaint was made to the Public Service Commission today that the Pennsylvania & Maryland Street Railway Company, operating in Somerset county, does not maintain either stations or waiting rooms. The Shipley Hardware Company of Meyersdale complained.

Campaigning With Center. The big three-foot feature "The Battle of Bull Run. Another two-foot feature, "Campaigning With Center" and a splendid comedy, "New Way to Win a Girl," at the Edison Theatre tomorrow.—Adv.

SMITHFIELD.

SMITHFIELD, August 22.—Citizens of the borough representing the various political parties met in the Town Hall Wednesday night and suggested the following named candidates to fill the various offices to be voted for at the approaching primary: For burgess, H. O'Neill; for council, G. W. Campbell, D. L. Black, B. O. Bowman, J. A. Lowe and A. A. Moser, for school director, Mrs. H. B. Guhr, Mrs. Carrie Nuthall, R. S. Burchinal, G. J. Feather and J. G. Jones; for collector, J. A. Metzler and E. Z. Johnson; for auditors, Jesse Leech, John Howard and W. J. Riffe, or assessors, E. W. Tiedt.

Thursday, the Daughters of Rehebekah Day at Shady Grove Park. The following from here were present: Mrs. Elizabeth Huhn, Mrs. Charles Jenkins, Mrs. Jessie Wilson, Mrs. Sarah Shont and daughters, Mrs. Peter Tague, Mrs. Albert Hill, Mrs. H. O'Neill, Mrs. Hannah Abraham, Mrs. John Toudin, Mr. and Mrs. James Lowe, Mrs. Ernest Malone.

J. K. B. Shont attended the New come reunion at Shady Grove Thursday.

Mrs. Willy Abraham visited friends at Fairbairn Thursday.

W. K. and W. S. Amos of Wheeling, W. Va.; W. E. Hinson, H. Myers, Pittsburg; Robert Ladeley, Point Pleasant, W. Va.; C. T. Olds, Detroit, Mich.; Frank Hamilton, Greensboro, C. H. Heall, New York, were registered at Barton's Wednesday.

Calvin Holmes of Morgantown, was visiting relatives in the borough Thursday.

Miss Anna Brownfield of Uniontown, in the guest of Mrs. H. B. Guhr, Superintendent Jones of Connel's Hill, was a business visitor Wednesday.

Sylvanus Deffenbaugh of Nicholson township, was a business visitor Wednesday.

John H. Smith of Woodbridge town, was a business visitor Wednesday.

Street Commissioner J. G. Jones is laid up at his home on Washington way with sickness.

The duPont powder wagon passed through the borough Wednesday with a load of explosives for some of the works south of here.

A stiff wind from the "mountain" lasting through Tuesday night until Wednesday afternoon visited this section, doing damage to property. It blew down a column supporting the roof of the porch of H. R. Sackett's residence on Liberty street.

INDIAN CREEK.

INDIAN CREEK, Aug. 21.—The miner reunion is being held at Ohioville today. The Indian Creek Valley railroad had quite a crowd from Norristown who left this morning.

J. H. Barger is a business caller in Connel's Hill and Uniontown today.

A stiff wind from the "mountain" lasting through Tuesday night until Wednesday afternoon visited this section, doing damage to property. It blew down a column supporting the roof of the porch of H. R. Sackett's residence on Liberty street.

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Lloyd Miller, our noble constable of

Get Yours

It's coming—August 25th to 30th will be Hyacinth Week all over town and nearby. Read later ads. for particular to you offer on Hyacinth Toilet Talcum Powder—the most delightful toilet powder ever made. Used for every purpose—dewy on the face—keeps cool, soothes the skin, instantly relieves chafing, chaps, wind roughness, and razor-burns. The one safe powder for the baby. 25c everywhere, in the pyramid box that cannot open.

The Pure Mfg. Co., Lancaster, Pa.

Invited to be present. The core drill that had been in operation for some time in 12th Lick township on the lands of the Keystone Coal Company, has been removed to lands of the same Jay Lumber Company in Garrett county, Md. to bore a test hole in order to ascertain the character of the minerals underlying that scope of country.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bevans of Jenner, passed through here yesterday enroute for Grantsville, Md. to spend their vacation with parents and friends at their former home. Some time ago Mr. Bevans was a clerk in the local store of the Dull Mercantile Company, and has since been holding a similar position in the store at Jenner.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. MacLaughlin and children, who spent the past week or ten days with friends here, departed yesterday for their home in Concord, N. C. Some years ago Reverend MacLaughlin was pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church of this place.

Miss Sara Smith, who spent some time with friends at Fairmont and Morgantown, W. Va., has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicks and little son, who spent the forpart of the week here, returned to Oakland, Md., where Mr. Hicks is at present employed. He formerly resided in Connel's Hill.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

Try our classified advertisements.

SATURDAY ONLY

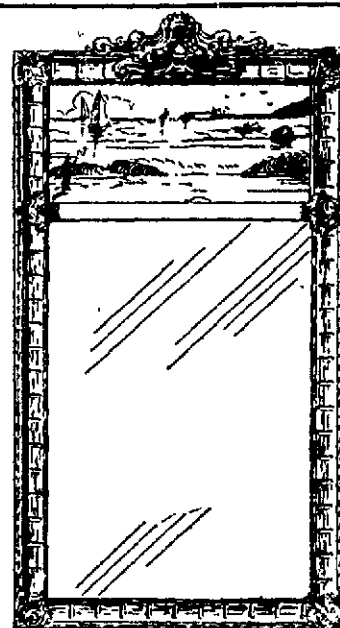

50 French Mirrors

14x27 inches

AT

98c

SATURDAY ONLY

50 French Mirrors

14x27 inches

AT

98c

SATURDAY ONLY

SEDERSKY & RAPPORT

242 NORTH PITTSBURG STREET

CAN DROP WEDDING RING

Philadelphia Judge Says Wearing of It Is Not Obligatory.

PHILADELPHIA, August 22.—A married woman has a perfect right to refuse to wear her wedding ring, according to a ruling of Judge Barratt today in one of the 200 desecration cases he was called on to adjudicate. Counsel for George Klein claimed that the many who had no claim on her husband for support because among other things, she left him without cause and then sought to hide the fact that she was his wife by declining to wear her wedding ring.

"Women have a right to do as they please," said Judge Barratt, referring to the ring incident. "This is a progressive age, and if this woman doesn't want her wedding ring, we cannot make her do so."

Hand Dance. Don't forget the hand dance Monday night at Shady Grove.

HUMES IS NAMED.

Democratic Assembly Leader Picked for District Attorney.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.—President Wilson yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Edwin Lowry Humes of Meadville to be United States Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Humes is a representative in the lower branch of the Pennsylvania Legislature and was the Democratic leader during the recent session.

$3.50 Rapid Vacuum Washer 98c

The Daily Courier

Is going to show its usual public spirit by giving to its readers the most wonderful labor saving, money saving, time saving and fuel saving device ever offered to the public.

A BENEFACTOR TO THE WOMEN

Coupon On Page 2.

Compressed Air Does the Work

AN EASY WASH DAY—NO BOILING—NO RUBBING.

No longer do you have to spend hours over the wash tub, no boiling, therefore no odors, it simply does away with drudgery. The Rapid Vacuum Washer is the most wonderful device ever offered the housewife, because it does away with the hardest work a woman is called to do and makes washing as easy as any other household work.

Start Cutting Your Coupons Today.

Do not let another wash day go by without having one of these vacuum washers in your home. The Courier has made it extremely easy for every woman to get one of these washers. All you have to do is to clip six coupons from The Daily Courier and present them at this office with 98 cents and receive a vacuum washer that will be worth to you many times the price you paid for it.

Every Vacuum Washer Absolutely Guaranteed.

SIX COUPONS AND 98 CENTS FOR THIS RAPID VACUUM CLOTHES WASHER

Sent by Parcels Post for 8 Cents Additional

It Pays to be a Reader of The Daily Courier

No man is Stronger Than his Stomach

The Medical Adviser by Dr. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y. answers loads of delicate questions about which every man or woman, single or married ought to know. Sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay for wrapping and mailing.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

helps the stomach to digest food properly, starts the liver into new activity, removing the poisons from the blood, and the various organs get rich, red blood, instead of being ill-nourished. The refreshing influence of this extract of native medicinal plants has been favorably known for over 40 years. Everywhere some neighbor can tell you of the good it has done.

Sold by all medicine dealers in liquid or tablet form. Sent 60 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce, Littlefield Hotel, Buffalo, and a trial box will be mailed you.

This is the place to buy your meats, groceries and provisions if it is your aim to buy the best, yet do so as reasonable as possible. Our stocks always represent the best in quality of things to eat. As for prices note the following:

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--------|
| Fancy Sweet Potatoes, half peck..... | 25c |
| Large Watermelon | 25c |
| Fancy New Potatoes, bushel | 90c |
| 3 bunches Celery | 10c |
| 3 dozen Jar Rings | 10c |
| 2 pounds Baking Powder | 25c |
| 25 lb. sack Sugar | $1.30 |

Connellsville Market

BOTH PHONES.

[Faint handwritten notes or bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

By C. A. Voight.

FRIDAY—Yes, a Bank Account Makes One Feel Rich.

William Sulzer the Eighth Governor to Be Impeached

But Seven State Executives Have Been on Trial in Years Past. Of These Only Two Were Found Guilty and Removed.

WHILE the activities of the New York state legislature to impeach Governor William Sulzer were in their height, his friends were busy in their denunciation of the methods and means employed by the Frawley investigating committee, upon whose findings the action of the legislature is based. Had Governor Sulzer consented to submit to the domination of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, his friends assert, and had turned over the state to him and that organization to exploit as they saw fit, there would have been no hue and cry against him. On the other hand, it is pointed out, no question of the moral turpitude of Tammany Hall or its leader is now involved. Unbiased citizens are unanimous in declaring that whatever may be the guilt or innocence of those who oppose the governor, if the charges against him are true, his impeachment and his speedy withdrawal from the public life of the state are imperative. According to the findings of the joint legislative committee, headed by Senator James J. Frawley, upon which the impeachment proceedings are based, Governor Sulzer is declared guilty of swearing to a false report to the secretary of state as to the total campaign contributions received by him. At the same time the accusation is made that he converted these surplus contributions to his own private use, and that, while governor, during a period when he was vigorously pressing legislation against the New York Stock Exchange, he engaged in stock speculation upon that exchange.

To these statements Governor Sulzer has entered a general denial. What his real defense will be only the future developments of the impeachment proceedings will make clear.

Few Governors Impeached.

Not often has the chief executive of a sovereign state of the Union been impeached. In fact, only seven governors of states have been impeached since the adoption of the federal constitution, according to the information assembled by Roger Foster in his "Commentaries

The first American governor to be accused in any proceeding analogous to the present day impeachment was Governor Seth Sothell of the colony of North Carolina, who was suspended by the proprietors of the colony in a letter dated Dec. 2, 1699, on charges made by the inhabitants of the county of Albemarle and approved by the assembly. One charge was that he had seized and imprisoned two persons coming into the county from Barbados with proper credentials on the pretense that they were pirates. One of these died in prison, and the governor took his property and converted it to his own use. Other charges of withdrawing for a money consideration accusations against persons charged with felony and treason and of unlawfully seizing land and cattle also were made against him.

Kansas Governor First.

The first impeachment of a governor of an American state was that of Charles Robinson, governor of Kansas. The first legislature of Kansas had authorized in 1861 an issue of $100,000 bonds to defray current expenses. Governor Robinson, the secretary of state and the state auditor were authorized to negotiate for the sale of the bonds. The only probable customer at the time, the beginning of the civil war, was the federal government, which held money in trust for Indians and was authorized to invest these in "safe and profitable stocks."

The secretary of state and auditor employed Robert Stevens, a Kansas politician of some prominence, to conduct the negotiations. Stevens was chosen because of business relations existing between him and Caleb B. Smith, the secretary of the interior. Stevens failed to sell the bonds through Secretary Smith and finally got R. G. Corwin, a claim agent, who was connected by marriage with the secretary of the interior, to aid him. Corwin put through negotiations for the purchase of the bonds out of the Indian funds provided. The entire Kansas delegation at Washington approved of the purchase in writing. This approval was obtained except in the case of United States Senator Lane. He based his refusal on the ground of fear that if Stevens got his commission he would use the money to buy votes to elect himself in the place of Lane, who had a majority of only one in the state legislature.

Thereupon $1000 was paid to Lane's private secretary, who procured the senator's signature through misrepresentation. The state house of representatives impeached the three officials who had been authorized to sell the bonds. The secretary of state and the auditor were convicted and removed from office. Governor Robinson was acquitted.

Florida Case Dropped.

On Nov. 6, 1898, the Florida house of representatives impeached Governor Harrison Reed on charges of falsehood and lying in official matters, of incompetency, of unlawfully declaring vacant many seats in the legislature, of embezzlement from the state treasury and of corruption and bribery in his appointments. This formidable series of charges was presented for trial to eight senators, there being so many vacancies that eight was a majority. The impeachment had automatically suspended Reed from office until the conclusion of the trial. Lieutenant Governor William H. Gleason issued a proclamation announcing that he had taken possession of the office of governor, and the assembly adjourned to the first of the following January. When the senate refused to take the same adjournment, Gleason adjourned it himself to the same day.

Governor Reed meanwhile refused to surrender his office and asked the state supreme court to pass on the legality of the proceedings. The court upheld Reed's position and removed the lieutenant governor from office on the ground of illegitimacy. The United States supreme court then upset the removal of Gleason as lieutenant governor, and with the incoming of the newly elected legislators on the 1st of January both houses, with vacancies filled, recognized Governor Reed, and the impeachment proceedings were dropped. One of the most interesting impeachment cases historically was that of Governor William W. Holden of North Carolina in December, 1870. The Ku-Klux Klan had committed a number of whippings and murders in Alamance and Caswell counties, and the local authorities had taken no action. Governor Holden, under act of the legislature, declared the two counties to be in a state of insurrection and sent militia to enforce order. The officer in command, Colonel George W. Kirk, arrested and imprisoned many civilians and refused to obey writs of habeas corpus obtained from the chief justice of the state on behalf of some of these military prisoners.

Habeas Corpus Suspended.

Chief Justice Pearson held that the writ of habeas corpus could be suspended only by the legislature, which had not authorized the suspension, but at the same time in an opinion dwelt upon the seriousness of the situation and the inevitability of more civil war if the writ were to be enforced by the county authorities against the state authorities and directed that the writ be sent to the governor. "If the governor does not honor it," he said, "I have discharged my duty; the power of the judiciary is exhausted, and the responsibility must rest on the executive."

Governor Holden replied to the chief justice, giving his reasons for his action and maintaining his position. The opponents of the governor thereupon obtained an injunction restraining the state treasurer and the paymaster from paying out money for the prosecution of military operations in the two counties. Governor Holden removed the paymaster upon whom the injunction was served and appointed another, who got the money from the treasurer and paid the troops. The governor was impeached and tried. He was acquitted of any misconduct in declaring the two counties in insurrection and in taking military possession of them, but was convicted of time to be taken up in argument and in their details that the board of managers from the house reported it could not handle the case under such restrictions and was discharged. A second board of managers was chosen, which reported that it had been unable to find evidence upon which to base the impeachment. On the recommendation of the committee the house dropped the matter.

Governor Butler of Nebraska was charged with appropriating some $18,000 of state money to his own use, with the acceptance of bribes, with unlawfully giving state lands to a railroad company—the Sioux City and Pacific—and with selling certain state lands and pocketing part of the proceeds. The governor was acquitted on all the charges except that of the appropriation of the $18,000. On this charge members of both political parties united in finding him guilty, and he was removed from office.

In 1872 Governor Henry C. Warmoth of Louisiana was impeached on a long list of counts, which included the forcible expulsion from office of the secretary of state, various unlawful appointments, confiscation in the forcible election of a judge from office in order to obtain possession of his court for use in settling aside an election board, the offer of a bribe of $50,000 to Lieutenant Governor P. B. S. Pinchbeck if the latter would organize the state senate in Warmoth's interest and a number of charges of intimidation of officials and officers of bribes.

Proceedings Dropped.

Before the trial was concluded the governor's term of office had expired, and the senate asked the advice of the chief justice regarding continuing the trial. "I question the propriety of such a demand," Chief Justice Livingston said in his opinion, and the senate agreed with him and dropped the proceedings.

In 1878 Adelbert Ames, governor of Mississippi, was impeached and tried by the state senate, but resigned before a verdict was rendered. Ames, a Republican governor of a southern state in the days of reconstruction, was charged with a long list of offenses, including the defrauding of the state of $35,750 by giving contracts for prison labor to personal friends without public letting, conspiring to slander a political opponent, unlawful removal of various officers and the unlawful retention in office of others. He also was charged with inciting race riots by inflammatory speeches and granting a pardon to a felon upon the payment of $3,000 to a third person.

Before the trial was concluded the governor wrote a letter to the house saying that on account of the embarrassment caused by the election of a hostile legislature he desired to resign, but that he would not do so while the proceedings were pending against him. So the house adopted a resolution, basing the preamble on this letter, withdrawing the impeachment, the senate approved, and Ames resigned. In the same year the lieutenant governor, Alexander K. Davis, was impeached on a charge of selling a pardon to a convicted murderer while the governor was absent from the state and was convicted, removed and disqualified in spite of his attempt to resign.

A Laureate on Lytton.

When Bulwer Lytton attacked Tennyson for accepting a civil list pension, Tennyson retaliated with a ten stanza poem in Punch, which has not been included in any collected edition of his works. He described his antagonist as: That padded man—that wears the stays—Who killed the girls and thrilled the boys With dandy panths when you wrote.

What profit now to understand The merits of a spotless shirt, A dapper boot, a little hand, If half the little soul is dirt? Tennyson felt ashamed of this outburst when he saw it in print. Punch of the following week contained his "After Thought," which ends: Surely, after all, The noblest answer unto such Is kindly silence when they brawl.

—London Chronicle.

Aims at Stock Gambling.

A bill designed to stop gambling in stocks, bonds and warehouse receipts of all commodities, which has just been introduced in congress by Representative Hullings, Progressive, of Pennsylvania, would compel all those dealing in securities or acceptances representing commodities to effect a delivery of the material bought and sold at the close of each transaction. They would have to execute a bill of sale with government internal revenue stamps.

Minute "Movies" of the News Right Off the Reel

"Tango" comes from the Latin and means "I touch."

To prevent spooning park benches in Huntington, W. Va., will be covered with luminous paint.

For letting his chickens wander in a neighbor's yard a man in Chelsea, Mass., was put under bail of 1 cent.

City owned pigs at the refuge home farm in Cincinnati are fed tons of condensed candy, the result of pure food raids.

Ex-King Manuel has pawned his father's decorations to tide him over until his forthcoming marriage to a wealthy bride.

Boy in Newburyport, Mass., found and played with a piece of "glass" which turned out to be the missing $1,500 diamond of Mrs. Nelson Morris, wife of the Chicago packer.

A silver loving cup has been presented Elias Toy, a Pennsylvania railroad conductor, who has worked continuously for fifty years without losing a day or ever receiving a reprimand.

Largest apple sauce pot in the world, ten feet in diameter and ten feet deep, will be shown at the Panama exposition. It will hold the filling for 3,000 apple pies at once, and still some countries won't participate in the big show.

NEW AEROBOAT TO GO OVER 67 MILES AN HOUR.

Stability and Speed Combined in Orville Wright's Latest Invention.

Orville Wright, the inventor of the aeroplane, has just turned out an aeroboot or flying boat which he believes will be an important factor in the development of the United States postal service. The invention is the result of two years of experimenting. Mr. Wright himself has been reluctant to discuss the new invention, but the general superintendent of the Wright company, Grover Cleveland Loughead of Dayton, O., recently consented to describe his chief's latest achievement in the world of air. "Mr. Wright," he said, "expects that his aeroboot will demonstrate its usefulness especially in carrying mails, dispatches, etc., over inaccessible inland waterways such as are found in many regions of the west, in Alaska and along the coast."

"The consistent speed of the new boat will be six-seventy miles an hour," he added, "and at all times it will be a faster vehicle for postal service than the fastest express train. Greater speed can be obtained on a spur."

The aeroboot has also been developed to an unusual point of seaworthiness. Mr. Loughead also described a new hydroaeroplane, model C-H, which Mr. Wright has just put upon the market. "The new hydro has been developed particularly for use over small inland rivers and lakes," said Mr. Loughead. "It is provided with new features for stability and control on the water. The quick and treacherous air currents created by high banks will not upset the new craft."

"With only a sixty horsepower motor as many as four persons have been carried on this hydro, and frequently it has flown off the water from a standing start in less than ten seconds."

The consistent speed of the Wright hydroaeroplane will be fifty-eight miles an hour.

Mr. Wright has made several experiments in flying his boat over the Miami river, near Dayton, and he has been able to demonstrate that hydroaeroplanes can be made as stable and easy to control in flight as the best land machines, according to Mr. Loughead.

When the Cake is Done.

It should pull from the sides of the pan. Should not stick to a toothpick when it is put into the center. It should spring back in place when the top is pressed on the top—Woman's World.

HOW TO ACCUMULATE MONEY

Make all you can—make your services valuable to your employer—if he doesn't recognize your worth, rest assured somebody else will. You can't keep a good man down.

Save all you can—Live well within your income whether it is large or small—Put the surplus at compound interest—a good bank is the best place.

This bank, whose doors have been open every business day for 37 years, invites your account and it pays

4% Compound Interest.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

"The Bank that Does Things for You." 129 W. Main Street, Connellsville, Pa. Letters of Credit. Travelers' Cheques. Foreign Money Orders.

Efficient Service and Courteous Treatment

Has enabled us within the past year, to double the number of our customers. Quite a number of persons and societies, with surplus funds, who do not want to tie up their money subject to the rules of a regular 4% account, are taking advantage of our special 5% accounts. If you are a customer at this bank you will always find us willing to extend any reasonable accommodation on satisfactory security.

Our Customers Always Receive the Preference.

If you have a little ready money it will pay you to open an account with us, become acquainted, and take advantage of our service.

The Colonial National Bank of Connellsville, Pa. Main and Pittsburg Sts. 4% interest paid on Certificates and Time Deposits. Foreign Department equipped to give the best of service.

Commercial Printing of all kinds Done at the Courier Job Printing Office.

History Made by a Postage Stamp.

A postage stamp which played a part in history is told about by M. Bunau-Varilla in his book on the Panama canal. The incident occurred when the discussion over the relative merits of the Panama and Nicaragua routes was at its height. Bunau-Varilla had been working vigorously for the Panama route, making use of the two arguments of less cost and immunity from active volcanoes. One day he recalled that Nicaragua had issued a handsome stamp, showing a volcano in full activity. He at once sent to the dealers in foreign stamps in Washington, and obtained ninety of these stamps, which he forwarded to the ninety senators, along with bits of paper bearing the words, "Postage stamp of the republic of Nicaragua; an official witness of the volcanic activities of Nicaragua." The catastrophe at St. Pierre took place about this time, to deepen the impression of volcanic danger, and the Panama route was adopted by the narrow margin of four votes.—New York Post.

His Wedding Present.

"I willingly contribute my marriage with my daughter," wrote a physician to his prospective son-in-law, "conditionally on your accepting as a wedding present her mother. As a wife she has not been a success; as a mother-in-law she is at least problematical. At all events, I can endure her temper no longer, and as she expresses a wish to live with her daughter I am sending her along by the next train."

In due course the lady arrived and lived with the young couple for many years.—London Mail.

The Money You Earn

depends largely upon your own efficiency. THE MONEY YOU SAVE is a matter of determination and habit in making regular deposits in the bank. Your account is cordially invited. 1% INTEREST PAID ON SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

Title & Trust Company of Western Penn'a. Connellsville, Pa. Oldest Savings Bank in Fayette County. Capital and Surplus $425,000.00.

J. B. KURTZ, NOTARY PUBLIC AND REAL ESTATE.

No. 2 South Meadow Lane, Connellsville, Pa.

Want Ads. 1c a Word.

Photo by American Press Association.

GOVERNOR WILLIAM SULZER.

in the Constitution of the United States. Of the seven only two were found guilty and removed—David Butler of Nebraska and William H. Holden of North Carolina. The latter was removed by a hostile senate following his activities in putting down the Ku-Klux Klan in his state in the reconstruction days.

A third governor resigned on the understanding that the charges against him would be dropped. The term of a fourth expired before his trial was completed, and further proceedings were abandoned. The others were acquitted as the impeachment proceedings were abandoned before a vote was taken. The states represented in the list are Florida, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, Nebraska, North Carolina and Kansas.

© 1913, by American Press Association.

CHARLES F. MURPHY.

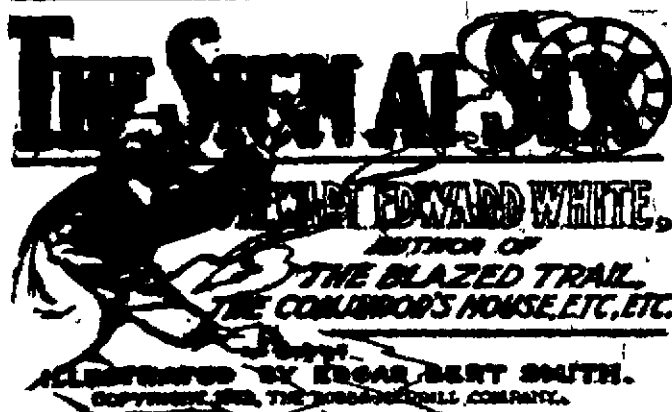

on charges of causing unlawful arrests, bringing troops in from another state and violating the writ of habeas corpus. He was removed and disqualified from holding office again under the state.

The year 1871 saw two governors impeached, Powell Clayton of Arkansas and David Butler of Nebraska. It was charged against Governor Clayton that he had conspired to deprive the lieutenant governor of his office, that he had removed certain judges illegally and that he had participated in election frauds and had unlawfully issued state bonds for the benefit of certain railroads.

Locked Governor Up.

The house of representatives suspended him pending the trial, and a resolution was adopted that he should be locked in the executive chamber and the door nailed up so that he could not get away to act.

Governor Clayton escaped and informed the house that he had been advised that it had no power to suspend him pending the trial. When the article of impeachment reached the senate that body adopted rules for the court of impeachment which were so stringent in the matter

"The people will buy a lot of suspense, at cost of a little fright and annoyance," replied Percy Darrow. "It's over, they'll come back again and be good. As for that bunch in there—when you look over those papers I think you'll be inclined to agree with what the religious fanatics will say—that it was a visitation of God."

"But the old, the old—their lives are dead, and the responsibility is something fearful!"

"Never knew a battle fought yet without some loss," observed Darrow. "Hallowell was starting at him."

"I don't understand you," said the superior. "You have no heart. You are as bad as this Monsieur X, and between you and me, a city in your power—one way or the other!"

"Well, I rather like being a little god," remarked Darrow.

Hallowell started once more to speak, but Darrow cut him short.

"You are thinking of the future. It's a good thing for people to find out that there are things bigger than they are, or than anything they can make. That fact is the basis of the idea of God. There are things to be a godlike people." He turned on Hallowell's sleepy eyes lighting up. "I should be very sorry if I had not intellect enough and imagination enough to see what this may mean to my fellow people; and I should despise myself if I should let an untrained companion lead to four million people the rare opportunity revealed to them."

He spoke very solemnly. Hallowell looked at him puzzled.

"Besides," said Darrow whimsically, "I like to devil Hallowell."

He drove into the subway. Hallowell gazed after him with a great deal of a crazy look. He remarked to a Spanish sparrow. He turned over rapidly the papers Darrow had found on the mayor's desk, and smiled grimly. "Of all the barbed, bald-headed stealers!" he said.

Darrow soon mounted once more the elevator of the Atlas Building. He found Jack and Helen still waiting. Before entering the wireless office Darrow cast a scrutinizing glance along the empty hall.

"It's all right," he said. "I'm sure that ever Everything fits exactly. Now, Helen," he said, "I want you to go home, and I want you stay there. No matter what happens, do not move from the house. This town is going to have the biggest scare thrown into it that our town ever had since the day when the Concorras got their little job. In the language of the Western prophet, 'It will soon be popping.' Let her pop. Sit tight; tell your friends to sit tight. If necessary, tell them Monsieur X is captured, and all his works. Tell them I said so."

His air of languid indifference had fallen from him. His eyes were bright, and he spoke with authority and vigor. "You take her home, Jack," he commanded, "and return here at once. Don't forget that nice new-blued pop-gun of yours; we've coming to the time when we may need it!"

Jack rose instantly to his feet. "Correct, General!" he saluted. "Where'd you collect the plunder?" he asked, pointing to a square black bag of some size that Darrow had brought back with him.

"That," said Darrow, "is the first fruit of my larcenous tendencies. I stole that from the mayor's office in the City Hall."

"What is it?"

"That," said Darrow, "I do not know."

He deposited the bag carefully by his chair, and turned, smiling, to Helen.

"How many stations are on the job, Simmons?" asked this man.

"All but two, sir," replied the operator. "D and P don't answer. I guess they beat it."

"How do they report the bulletin now?"

"On the job," replied the wireless man.

The stout young man turned to Lyons.

"Well, sir," said he. "I don't know whether we've had a death or not, but I am pretty sure we have. My automobile is in concealment in the stable in the rear of 127. My yacht is standing off the Battery awaiting signal to come in. We have, I glanced at his watch, 'over an hour before the threatened catastrophe.'"

He looked up expectantly. The men all glanced uneasily at one another, except Simmons, who stared at his batteries stolidly.

"Come, gentlemen," urged Lyons, after a moment. "There is really not much time to lose, for you know the yacht must steam beyond the danger zone."

"Heat it," spoke up Simmons, at last. "There isn't any good of you here. If anything comes, you can handle it. It's just a case of send out orders to your bulletin men."

"I think I'd better stay," observed Paige, the stout young man, with an air of apology. "I know I'm not much use; but I've placed men, and they'll stick; and if this freeze-out proposition goes through—why, they're in it, and I'm in it."

"That's how I feel," broke in Perkins. "But you have done your full duty. Mr. Lyons, and you have no reason to stay. Let me get your car around to you."

"Oh, I'm going to stay," said Lyons.

There was fighting in the streets, and panic, and stark rumor, of course; and there was heroism, and coolness, and the taking of thought. To the little group of men in the top floor of the Atlas Building the roar of riot came up like the thunder of the orchestra before the rise of the curtain. Most of the people in the streets fled from a danger they did not understand. This little group in the wireless office realized clearly what still and frozen dissolution the rising of the curtain would disclose. They were not many; and they did not know what they were to do, if anything; but they had not run away.

Eldridge was there, looking somewhat flustered for the first time in his life, and four of the large committee that had employed him. Simmons sat calmly at his post, and of all the reporters Hallowell alone had stood by. He had faith in Darrow, and he knew that in the Dispatch office a little handful of men stood in the shadow of death on the off chance of the biggest scoop since Noah's flood.

The four solid citizens looked at one another. The oldest turned to Eldridge.

"Then your opinion is that the city is doomed?"

"I can offer no other solution, sir," said the scientist. "It is at last evident that this man's power over other real vibrations extends to those forming heat-rays. If this is so, it follows that he can cut off all life by stopping all heat. If his threat is carried out, we can but look forward to a repetition on a large scale of the City Hall affair."

"The people will buy a lot of suspense, at cost of a little fright and annoyance," replied Percy Darrow. "It's over, they'll come back again and be good. As for that bunch in there—when you look over those papers I think you'll be inclined to agree with what the religious fanatics will say—that it was a visitation of God."

"But the old, the old—their lives are dead, and the responsibility is something fearful!"

"Never knew a battle fought yet without some loss," observed Darrow. "Hallowell was starting at him."

"I don't understand you," said the superior. "You have no heart. You are as bad as this Monsieur X, and between you and me, a city in your power—one way or the other!"

"Well, I rather like being a little god," remarked Darrow.

Hallowell started once more to speak, but Darrow cut him short.

"You are thinking of the future. It's a good thing for people to find out that there are things bigger than they are, or than anything they can make. That fact is the basis of the idea of God. There are things to be a godlike people." He turned on Hallowell's sleepy eyes lighting up. "I should be very sorry if I had not intellect enough and imagination enough to see what this may mean to my fellow people; and I should despise myself if I should let an untrained companion lead to four million people the rare opportunity revealed to them."

He spoke very solemnly. Hallowell looked at him puzzled.

"Besides," said Darrow whimsically, "I like to devil Hallowell."

He drove into the subway. Hallowell gazed after him with a great deal of a crazy look. He remarked to a Spanish sparrow. He turned over rapidly the papers Darrow had found on the mayor's desk, and smiled grimly. "Of all the barbed, bald-headed stealers!" he said.

Darrow soon mounted once more the elevator of the Atlas Building. He found Jack and Helen still waiting. Before entering the wireless office Darrow cast a scrutinizing glance along the empty hall.

"It's all right," he said. "I'm sure that ever Everything fits exactly. Now, Helen," he said, "I want you to go home, and I want you stay there. No matter what happens, do not move from the house. This town is going to have the biggest scare thrown into it that our town ever had since the day when the Concorras got their little job. In the language of the Western prophet, 'It will soon be popping.' Let her pop. Sit tight; tell your friends to sit tight. If necessary, tell them Monsieur X is captured, and all his works. Tell them I said so."

His air of languid indifference had fallen from him. His eyes were bright, and he spoke with authority and vigor. "You take her home, Jack," he commanded, "and return here at once. Don't forget that nice new-blued pop-gun of yours; we've coming to the time when we may need it!"

Jack rose instantly to his feet. "Correct, General!" he saluted. "Where'd you collect the plunder?" he asked, pointing to a square black bag of some size that Darrow had brought back with him.

"That," said Darrow, "is the first fruit of my larcenous tendencies. I stole that from the mayor's office in the City Hall."

"What is it?"

"That," said Darrow, "I do not know."

He deposited the bag carefully by his chair, and turned, smiling, to Helen.

"How many stations are on the job, Simmons?" asked this man.

"All but two, sir," replied the operator. "D and P don't answer. I guess they beat it."

"The people will buy a lot of suspense, at cost of a little fright and annoyance," replied Percy Darrow. "It's over, they'll come back again and be good. As for that bunch in there—when you look over those papers I think you'll be inclined to agree with what the religious fanatics will say—that it was a visitation of God."

"But the old, the old—their lives are dead, and the responsibility is something fearful!"

"Never knew a battle fought yet without some loss," observed Darrow. "Hallowell was starting at him."

"I don't understand you," said the superior. "You have no heart. You are as bad as this Monsieur X, and between you and me, a city in your power—one way or the other!"

"Well, I rather like being a little god," remarked Darrow.

Hallowell started once more to speak, but Darrow cut him short.

"You are thinking of the future. It's a good thing for people to find out that there are things bigger than they are, or than anything they can make. That fact is the basis of the idea of God. There are things to be a godlike people." He turned on Hallowell's sleepy eyes lighting up. "I should be very sorry if I had not intellect enough and imagination enough to see what this may mean to my fellow people; and I should despise myself if I should let an untrained companion lead to four million people the rare opportunity revealed to them."

He spoke very solemnly. Hallowell looked at him puzzled.

"Besides," said Darrow whimsically, "I like to devil Hallowell."

He drove into the subway. Hallowell gazed after him with a great deal of a crazy look. He remarked to a Spanish sparrow. He turned over rapidly the papers Darrow had found on the mayor's desk, and smiled grimly. "Of all the barbed, bald-headed stealers!" he said.

Darrow soon mounted once more the elevator of the Atlas Building. He found Jack and Helen still waiting. Before entering the wireless office Darrow cast a scrutinizing glance along the empty hall.

"It's all right," he said. "I'm sure that ever Everything fits exactly. Now, Helen," he said, "I want you to go home, and I want you stay there. No matter what happens, do not move from the house. This town is going to have the biggest scare thrown into it that our town ever had since the day when the Concorras got their little job. In the language of the Western prophet, 'It will soon be popping.' Let her pop. Sit tight; tell your friends to sit tight. If necessary, tell them Monsieur X is captured, and all his works. Tell them I said so."

His air of languid indifference had fallen from him. His eyes were bright, and he spoke with authority and vigor. "You take her home, Jack," he commanded, "and return here at once. Don't forget that nice new-blued pop-gun of yours; we've coming to the time when we may need it!"

Jack rose instantly to his feet. "Correct, General!" he saluted. "Where'd you collect the plunder?" he asked, pointing to a square black bag of some size that Darrow had brought back with him.

"That," said Darrow, "is the first fruit of my larcenous tendencies. I stole that from the mayor's office in the City Hall."

"What is it?"

"That," said Darrow, "I do not know."

He deposited the bag carefully by his chair, and turned, smiling, to Helen.

"How many stations are on the job, Simmons?" asked this man.

"All but two, sir," replied the operator. "D and P don't answer. I guess they beat it."

"The people will buy a lot of suspense, at cost of a little fright and annoyance," replied Percy Darrow. "It's over, they'll come back again and be good. As for that bunch in there—when you look over those papers I think you'll be inclined to agree with what the religious fanatics will say—that it was a visitation of God."

"But the old, the old—their lives are dead, and the responsibility is something fearful!"

"Never knew a battle fought yet without some loss," observed Darrow. "Hallowell was starting at him."

"I don't understand you," said the superior. "You have no heart. You are as bad as this Monsieur X, and between you and me, a city in your power—one way or the other!"

"Well, I rather like being a little god," remarked Darrow.

Hallowell started once more to speak, but Darrow cut him short.

"You are thinking of the future. It's a good thing for people to find out that there are things bigger than they are, or than anything they can make. That fact is the basis of the idea of God. There are things to be a godlike people." He turned on Hallowell's sleepy eyes lighting up. "I should be very sorry if I had not intellect enough and imagination enough to see what this may mean to my fellow people; and I should despise myself if I should let an untrained companion lead to four million people the rare opportunity revealed to them."

He spoke very solemnly. Hallowell looked at him puzzled.

"Besides," said Darrow whimsically, "I like to devil Hallowell."

He drove into the subway. Hallowell gazed after him with a great deal of a crazy look. He remarked to a Spanish sparrow. He turned over rapidly the papers Darrow had found on the mayor's desk, and smiled grimly. "Of all the barbed, bald-headed stealers!" he said.

Darrow soon mounted once more the elevator of the Atlas Building. He found Jack and Helen still waiting. Before entering the wireless office Darrow cast a scrutinizing glance along the empty hall.

"It's all right," he said. "I'm sure that ever Everything fits exactly. Now, Helen," he said, "I want you to go home, and I want you stay there. No matter what happens, do not move from the house. This town is going to have the biggest scare thrown into it that our town ever had since the day when the Concorras got their little job. In the language of the Western prophet, 'It will soon be popping.' Let her pop. Sit tight; tell your friends to sit tight. If necessary, tell them Monsieur X is captured, and all his works. Tell them I said so."

His air of languid indifference had fallen from him. His eyes were bright, and he spoke with authority and vigor. "You take her home, Jack," he commanded, "and return here at once. Don't forget that nice new-blued pop-gun of yours; we've coming to the time when we may need it!"

Jack rose instantly to his feet. "Correct, General!" he saluted. "Where'd you collect the plunder?" he asked, pointing to a square black bag of some size that Darrow had brought back with him.

"That," said Darrow, "is the first fruit of my larcenous tendencies. I stole that from the mayor's office in the City Hall."

"What is it?"

"That," said Darrow, "I do not know."

He deposited the bag carefully by his chair, and turned, smiling, to Helen.

"How many stations are on the job, Simmons?" asked this man.

"All but two, sir," replied the operator. "D and P don't answer. I guess they beat it."

"The people will buy a lot of suspense, at cost of a little fright and annoyance," replied Percy Darrow. "It's over, they'll come back again and be good. As for that bunch in there—when you look over those papers I think you'll be inclined to agree with what the religious fanatics will say—that it was a visitation of God."

"But the old, the old—their lives are dead, and the responsibility is something fearful!"

"Never knew a battle fought yet without some loss," observed Darrow. "Hallowell was starting at him."

"I don't understand you," said the superior. "You have no heart. You are as bad as this Monsieur X, and between you and me, a city in your power—one way or the other!"

"Well, I rather like being a little god," remarked Darrow.

Hallowell started once more to speak, but Darrow cut him short.

"You are thinking of the future. It's a good thing for people to find out that there are things bigger than they are, or than anything they can make. That fact is the basis of the idea of God. There are things to be a godlike people." He turned on Hallowell's sleepy eyes lighting up. "I should be very sorry if I had not intellect enough and imagination enough to see what this may mean to my fellow people; and I should despise myself if I should let an untrained companion lead to four million people the rare opportunity revealed to them."

He spoke very solemnly. Hallowell looked at him puzzled.

"Besides," said Darrow whimsically, "I like to devil Hallowell."

He drove into the subway. Hallowell gazed after him with a great deal of a crazy look. He remarked to a Spanish sparrow. He turned over rapidly the papers Darrow had found on the mayor's desk, and smiled grimly. "Of all the barbed, bald-headed stealers!" he said.

Darrow soon mounted once more the elevator of the Atlas Building. He found Jack and Helen still waiting. Before entering the wireless office Darrow cast a scrutinizing glance along the empty hall.

"It's all right," he said. "I'm sure that ever Everything fits exactly. Now, Helen," he said, "I want you to go home, and I want you stay there. No matter what happens, do not move from the house. This town is going to have the biggest scare thrown into it that our town ever had since the day when the Concorras got their little job. In the language of the Western prophet, 'It will soon be popping.' Let her pop. Sit tight; tell your friends to sit tight. If necessary, tell them Monsieur X is captured, and all his works. Tell them I said so."

His air of languid indifference had fallen from him. His eyes were bright, and he spoke with authority and vigor. "You take her home, Jack," he commanded, "and return here at once. Don't forget that nice new-blued pop-gun of yours; we've coming to the time when we may need it!"

Jack rose instantly to his feet. "Correct, General!" he saluted. "Where'd you collect the plunder?" he asked, pointing to a square black bag of some size that Darrow had brought back with him.

"That," said Darrow, "is the first fruit of my larcenous tendencies. I stole that from the mayor's office in the City Hall."

"What is it?"

"That," said Darrow, "I do not know."

He deposited the bag carefully by his chair, and turned, smiling, to Helen.

"How many stations are on the job, Simmons?" asked this man.

"All but two, sir," replied the operator. "D and P don't answer. I guess they beat it."

"The people will buy a lot of suspense, at cost of a little fright and annoyance," replied Percy Darrow. "It's over, they'll come back again and be good. As for that bunch in there—when you look over those papers I think you'll be inclined to agree with what the religious fanatics will say—that it was a visitation of God."

"But the old, the old—their lives are dead, and the responsibility is something fearful!"

"Never knew a battle fought yet without some loss," observed Darrow. "Hallowell was starting at him."

"I don't understand you," said the superior. "You have no heart. You are as bad as this Monsieur X, and between you and me, a city in your power—one way or the other!"

"Well, I rather like being a little god," remarked Darrow.

Hallowell started once more to speak, but Darrow cut him short.

"You are thinking of the future. It's a good thing for people to find out that there are things bigger than they are, or than anything they can make. That fact is the basis of the idea of God. There are things to be a godlike people." He turned on Hallowell's sleepy eyes lighting up. "I should be very sorry if I had not intellect enough and imagination enough to see what this may mean to my fellow people; and I should despise myself if I should let an untrained companion lead to four million people the rare opportunity revealed to them."

He spoke very solemnly. Hallowell looked at him puzzled.

"Besides," said Darrow whimsically, "I like to devil Hallowell."

He drove into the subway. Hallowell gazed after him with a great deal of a crazy look. He remarked to a Spanish sparrow. He turned over rapidly the papers Darrow had found on the mayor's desk, and smiled grimly. "Of all the barbed, bald-headed stealers!" he said.

Darrow soon mounted once more the elevator of the Atlas Building. He found Jack and Helen still waiting. Before entering the wireless office Darrow cast a scrutinizing glance along the empty hall.

"It's all right," he said. "I'm sure that ever Everything fits exactly. Now, Helen," he said, "I want you to go home, and I want you stay there. No matter what happens, do not move from the house. This town is going to have the biggest scare thrown into it that our town ever had since the day when the Concorras got their little job. In the language of the Western prophet, 'It will soon be popping.' Let her pop. Sit tight; tell your friends to sit tight. If necessary, tell them Monsieur X is captured, and all his works. Tell them I said so."

His air of languid indifference had fallen from him. His eyes were bright, and he spoke with authority and vigor. "You take her home, Jack," he commanded, "and return here at once. Don't forget that nice new-blued pop-gun of yours; we've coming to the time when we may need it!"

Jack rose instantly to his feet. "Correct, General!" he saluted. "Where'd you collect the plunder?" he asked, pointing to a square black bag of some size that Darrow had brought back with him.

"That," said Darrow, "is the first fruit of my larcenous tendencies. I stole that from the mayor's office in the City Hall."

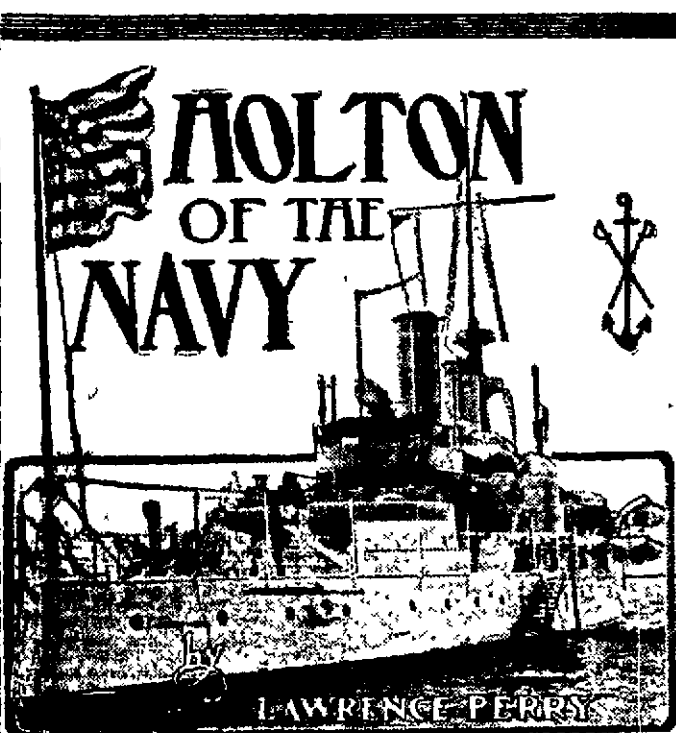

"What is it?"

"That," said Darrow, "I do not know."

He deposited the bag carefully by his chair, and turned, smiling, to Helen.

"How many stations are on the job, Simmons?" asked this man.

"All but two, sir," replied the operator. "D and P don't answer. I guess they beat it."

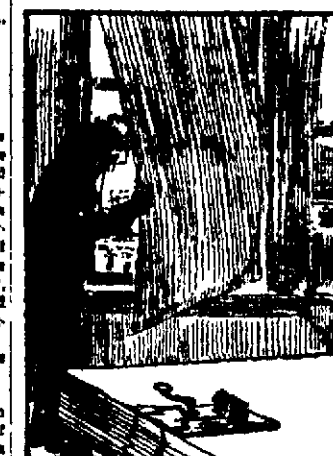

OUR new serial by the above title takes you back to the days of Cuba's struggle for independence, recalling many of the prominent incidents connected with the Spanish-American war.

Lieutenant Holton, commander of the Scorpion, is detached from his command at the outbreak of hostilities to engage in important secret service work. The machination of misled Cuban patriots, Spanish spies, and a beautiful young Cuban girl with whom the young officer falls desperately in love, furnishes a plot of unusual interest. You'll find it a

Crisp and Readable Romance of the Spanish-American War

WATCH for the ISSUE WITH THE FIRST INSTALLMENT!

WILL COMMENCE IN THIS PAPER MONDAY.

The silent figures in the darkened room looked on. At last he gave a sigh, walked quietly to the electric light, and turned it on.

"It's the biggest thing—and the simplest—the world has ever known in physics, Jack," said he, "but it's got to go."

"What?" asked Jack, rousing from the mood of waiting into which he had hitherto forced himself in spite of the turmoil outside.

"The man has perfected a combined system of special tuning and definite electrical energy," said Darrow, "by which through an ordinary wireless sender he can send forth into the ether what might be called deadening or nullifying waves. You are no doubt familiar with the common experiment by which two sounds will produce a silence. This is just like that. By means of this, within the radius of his sending instrument and for a period of time up to the capacity of his batteries, a man can absolutely stop vibration of other heat, sound, light, or electricity length it is entirely a question of simple formulas. Here they are."

He held out four closely written pages bound together with manuscript fasteners.

"No man has ever before attained this knowledge or this power," went on Darrow, after a moment, "and probably never again in the history of the race will exactly this combination of luck and special talent occur. These four pages are unique."

He laid them on the edge of the table, produced a cigarette, lighted it, picked up the four pages of formulas, and held the burning match to their edges. The flames caught, fared up the filmy paper. Darrow dropped the burning corners as it scorched his fingers. It fell to the floor, flickered, and was gone.

Jack leaped forward with an exclamation of dismay. The old man bound to the chair did not wink, but stared straight in front of him, his eyes fixed like those of an owl or a wildcat.

"For God's sake, Darrow!" cried Jack Warford. "Do you know what you have done?"

"Perfectly," replied Darrow calmly. "This is probably the greatest achievement of the scientific intellect; but it must go. It would give to men an unlooked power that belongs only to the gods."

"Got it?" asked Jack.

"Yes," replied Darrow soberly. He reflected for several minutes longer, then moved to the window and looked out over the city. Absolutely motionless there he stood while the night fell, oblivious alike to the roar and crash of the increasing panic and to

"The old man was in the attitude of looking out intensely."

"The old man was in the attitude of looking out intensely."

"The old man was in the attitude of looking out intensely."

"The old man was in the attitude of looking out intensely."

CHAPTER XXIII

How It All Was

For his share in the foregoing Percy Darrow was extremely blamed. It was universally conceded that his action in permitting Monsieur X to continue his activities up to the danger point was inadmissible. The public mind should have been reassured long before. Much terror and physical suffering might thus have been avoided—not to speak of financial loss. Scientific men, furthermore, were friendly over his unwarranted despatch of the formulas. Percy Darrow was very shortly described as a lawless man, and a scientific villain. To these aspersions he paid no attention whatever.

Helen Warford, however, became vastly indignant and perturbed, and in consequence Percy Darrow's course in the matter received from her its full credit for a genuine rebuke. Hallowell, also, held permanently to this point, as far as his efforts would permit him, until at last the public mind was somewhat calmed, attention was more focused on the means by which the man had reached his conclusions rather than on the use of them he had made.

The story was told three times by its chief actor once to the newspapers, once to the capitalists from whom he demanded the promised reward, and once to the Warfords. This last account was the more detailed and interesting.

It was of a late afternoon again. The lamps were lighted, and tea was forward. Helen was manipulating the cups. Jack was standing ready to pass them, Mr. and Mrs. Warford sat in the background listening, and Darrow lounged gracefully in front of the fire.

"From the beginning!" Helen was commanding him, "and expect interruptions."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Try our classified advertisements.

"THE OLD RELIABLE" PLANTEN'S CAPSULES REMEDY FOR MEN

Sports

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Scores Yesterday.

Pittsburgh 9; Philadelphia 6.
New York 3; Chicago 2.
Boston 7; St. Louis 4.
Cincinnati 4; Brooklyn 4.

Standing of the Clubs.

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	73	36	.690
Philadelphia	65	42	.607
Chicago	63	43	.593
Pittsburgh	62	43	.591
Brooklyn	59	46	.560
Boston	47	61	.432
Cincinnati	47	72	.392
St. Louis	43	72	.374

Today's Schedule.
Pittsburgh at Philadelphia.
Chicago at New York.
Cincinnati at Brooklyn.
St. Louis at Boston.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Scores Yesterday.

Philadelphia 7; Chicago 1.
Washington 4; St. Louis 6.
Boston 3; Cleveland 2.

Seven innings—rain.

Standing of the Clubs.

	W.	L.	Pct.
Philadelphia	75	38	.667
Cleveland	69	47	.592
Washington	64	49	.569
Chicago	63	53	.542
Boston	54	58	.482
Detroit	49	67	.422
St. Louis	47	74	.388
New York	33	71	.319

Philadelphia at Chicago.
Washington at St. Louis.
Boston at Cleveland.
New York at Detroit.

Unclaimed Letters.

Unclaimed letters advertised at Connelville, Pa., week ending August 18, 1913.

Anderson Mrs.	Koleta M. J.
Liddle	Layton Mrs. L. C.
Blackstone Earl	Larson Mrs.
Hosley Katie	Leo J.
Beatty Paul	McGoy M. N.
Costello Mike	Mawhinney Geo.
Cisco Carmine	Miller Mrs.
Lucy Theodore	McLaughlin
Kyano Mary	Chas. A.
Piger Mrs.	McMasters Emma
Hosie	Perkins Bertha
Fuller Bertha	Parker Jan. A.
Freeman Fred D.	Ritgen Stephen
Evie Guy	Richardson John
Indon Ed	Stillwagon Mrs.
Deana Pearl	Edward
Hanson Lee	Sadler Mrs.
Henry Mrs.	Ladale
James Edith M.	Stowik Mary
James G. E.	Stiles Winifred
Jones Frank	Spence Wm
Kane Mrs. V. C.	Trump Mrs. Viola
Partek Sander	Marcanyon
Black Tavaaz	Ladale
Hill Mrs.	Marcandino
Kane Josef	Ladale
Rose Antonio	Monsieur J. H.

WARNING FOR MOTORISTS

Highway Department Will Appoint Motorcycle Police to Protect Roads.
HARRISBURG, August 22.—Speeding of automobiles and motorcycles on the "southern pike," as the state road from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia by way of Bedford and Gettysburg is known, is to be broken up through the use of motorcycle policemen by the State Highway Department. These policemen will be placed on duty between Pittsburgh and Bedford, where complaints of automobile going as high as 50 and 60 miles an hour have been made.
Some of the reports indicate that the motorist is in danger of being damaged by the high speed. A number of narrow escapes have also been reported.

COURT'S AUTHORITY DENIED.

Decision by Fayette Jurist Rejected by New Castle Commissioners.
NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 22.—County commissioners here refused to accept nomination papers upon party tickets presented by candidates for city council based upon the decision of Judge John G. Van Swearingen of Fayette county, declaring the non-partisan law for third class cities unconstitutional.

The commissioners held that the Fayette county opinion does not hold good anywhere except in that judge's bailiwick and say they have no authority to accept party nomination papers.

The Battle of Bull Run.
The big three-reel feature "The Battle of Bull Run." Another two-reel feature, "Campus Life With Custer" and a splendid comedy, "New Way to Win a Girl," at the Soloman Theatre tomorrow—Adv.

Big G Cures in 1 to 3 days
Gonorrhea and Gleet.
Guaranteed not to return.
Why not cure yourself?
At Connelville, or no this report would appear in the paper. Full particulars mailed on request.
DR. SWAN MEDICAL CO., Connelville, Pa.

COOLEST BARBER SHOP IN TOWN.
SID MOSER,
Under Second National Bank.

WEAR Horner's Clothing

Scranton, Pa.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Slawish."

Scranton, Pa., is a well known city situated among the smaller wrinkles of the face of Nature in Pennsylvania. The Lackawanna river flows through the city and the Lackawanna railroad makes escape to New York a short and easy performance.

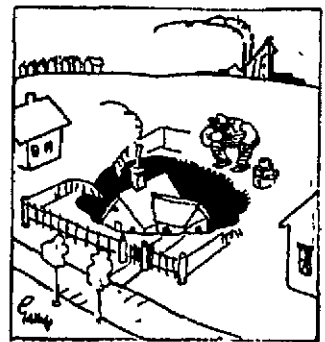

Scranton is noted for its two great productions—hard coal and correspondence. Each day of the year Scranton sends a thousand cars of hard coal out from the mines around the city, and each day it sends out several tons of correspondence to the ambitious young people of America who are learning engineering, French, stenography, swimming, politics and landscape gardening by mail.

Before Scranton got into the correspondence game its coal production was tremendous but its existence was not generally suspected. Now it is known all over the world and writing to Scranton is a favorite occupation. It pays to advertise.

Scranton has an area of 29 square miles and is built on a foundation of solid anthracite coal. All over the city thousands of men are working in the mines digging out this foundation, in consequence of which Scranton has many ten story cellars and the earth occasionally faints away beneath the citizen's humble cottage in a disagreeable manner. Scranton is no better than other cities in summer but is a paradise in winter owing to the extreme hardness of the coal supply and the happy citizen can buy his steam heat at meter rates as easily as he can buy natural gas in Kansas.

Scranton was laid out in 1846, and at that time had intentions of becoming the Pittsburgh of America.

However, the rolling mills moved away in order to be nearer to Andrew Carnegie, and since then the city has mined coal and licked stamps for a living. It has 136,000 inhabitants, almost half of whom know how to swing a pick. Scranton has many thousand Welsh, English and Irish citizens, but they live together more peaceably than they do across the ocean.

The earth occasionally faints away beneath the citizen's humble cottage.

Scranton nestles among the 3,200 foot mountains of Eastern Pennsylvania, and is more interesting underground and overhead than it is on the street level. Producing poor miner's sons, who have a chance to become president has been its greatest diversion but none of them has gotten farther than Congress as yet.

WHOLESOME FOODS

BELL TELEPHONE 5

TRI-STATE No. 856

Direct Phone Service

Brings your call instantly to the grocery department without the customary wait for inside connection, as you've previously experienced.

THIS modern grocery, stocked with foods of vouched for wholesomeness, purity and cleanliness, supplies staple and fancy delicacies of the first quality at lower prices than other stores ask regularly, because of its big outlet and two-store buying power. Proof:

Four cans Tomato Soup	25c
Hire's 25c Root Beer Extract	15c
Quart Beer Bottles, a dozen	70c
Extra Good Coffee, a pound	18c
Four cans Sugar Corn	25c
New Peas, one can	10c
Van Camp Beans, two cans	25c

50 POUNDS FLOUR—
White Wonder or Gold Medal, at	$1.50
OIL, SAFFRON—
7 boxes	25c
TOMATO CATSUP—
3 bottles	25c
ASSORTED JELLIES—
3 glasses	25c
COCOA IN GLASS
Quart Jar	25c
CORN FLAKES—
3 boxes	25c
SODA CRACKERS—
4 pounds	25c
BLACKBERRIES—
2 cans	25c
TABLE PEACHES—
1 can	20c
FANCY APRICOTS—
1 can	20c
ROYAL ANN CHERRIES—
1 can	25c

DRIED BEEF—
In glass jar	10c to 25c
OLIVE SALAD—
1 bottle	10c
OLIVE OIL (Pure)—
1 small bottle	10c
FLY PAPER—
7 sheets	10c
MAPLE SUGAR—
1 pound	5c
PEANUT BUTTER—
Large Jar	25c
1 lb. EXTRACT—
3 bottles	25c
GOOD ROOM—
A good one at	25c
SAUERKRAUT—
3 cans	25c
PIE PUMPKIN—
3 cans	25c
NOISELESS MATCHES—
3 boxes	10c

This Lindsay Gas Mantle AT 25c EACH

Is Guaranteed for 90 Days

The box that contains the mantle is dated at the time of purchase to insure a new mantle if your purchase fails in satisfaction within ninety days. Keep the box and return cap or frame of the mantle that breaks within the warranted period. Two styles—upright or inverted, each 25c.

A small quantity of Jap-a-Lac Bath Tub Enamel is to be disposed of at:

50c for half gallon cans.
25c for one quart cans.
15c for one pint cans.

Wright - Metzler Company

PATRONIZE THOSE WHO ADVERTISE

WRIGHT-METZLER'S Store Closes Daily at 5: Saturday 10 P. M.

THE new Fall and Winter Models in Fashionable Clothes

For men and young men are ready for inspection -- and selection -- while the gathering is at its best.

THE Hats that men will wear this fall are ready in the Men's Clothing Store. Every good style is represented in stiff or soft texture, and priced fairly. Also, children's hats are shown.

Wright-Metzler Company.

The Store's Note Book

—The Autumn Style Book contains first hand information of what women will wear the last quarter of 1913. The book sells at 25c and includes a voucher that may be exchanged for any 15c Pattern in stock.
—The Book Section contains now fiction at 50c that, earlier, was costing $1.25 and upwards.
—All Ratine, plain and figured, is one price, 50c yard.
—Black Silk Hose, previously 50c a pair, is now selling at 30c a pair.
—Little Sox, in delicate colors and patterns are costing less by one-fourth than earlier in the season. Children will wear socks until late in the fall—and again next summer.
—Vanitie's Cashmere Bouquet. Dactyls and other talcums are 15c a can. Rice powder 10c.
—Any 75c Silk Glove in stock goes at 50c pair.
Dry Goods Store.

The Perfect Corset Makes a Perfect Figure

So far as a foundation for a dress is concerned. If some women who are careless in such matters would discard the corset they are now wearing and substitute a Gossard or a Redfern the result might surprise them beyond belief. These corsets, in their many styles, enhance ALL figures, and do it comfortably.

Redfern Corsets $2.98 for certain of the $5 and $6 models Saturday and Monday.

Second Floor.

Yough Ice Cream

Pure and Wholesome

Orders for Any Quantity or Flavor Filled Promptly.

Give us a trial order today. We will guarantee satisfaction.

908—Both Phones—908

Yough, Crystal Ice & Storage Co.
CONNELLSVILLE, PA.

BALTIMORE & OHIO $5.75

Connellsville to

Niagara Falls

AND RETURN

via Pittsburgh and B. & O. R. R.

AUGUST 23 and 30.

TICKETS GOOD FIVE DAYS.

Ask B. & O. R. R. Ticket Agent for Full Information.

DR. BARNES PHYSICIAN AND SPECIALIST

Established in 1890. Permanent and Reliable Modern Electrical and Medical Treatment for all General Diseases (Black Skin), MEN'S SPECIAL DISEASES AND WOMEN'S TREATMENT Under Guarantee of Results in a Small Fee. Terms reasonable. Mailed on request.
At The Second National Bank Building, Connelville, Pa., Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Specially Appointed. Consultation by "Globe" from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

DO IT NOW Subscribe for THE PAPER

The desire to fish is one of man's primitive instincts. When your day off comes you lie away to the place where fields are green and the sunlight dances on ripples or lies in checkered shadows on the pool beneath the old sycamore tree. Then when you get hungry—how good it all tastes—the sandwiches, the cheese, the pickles—and last and best of all, foaming, sparkling

Pittsburgh Brewing Co's. Beer

the beverage you like so well at home—but doubly good where breezes play and the glad freedom of life in the open gives a new zest to every pleasure.

Order a case today from your dealer

Pittsburgh Brewing Company

CONNELLSVILLE BREWERY.